January 2020 Tevet — Shevat 5780

Temple Beth-El's 35th Annual Martin Luther King Service Friday, January 24 at 7:00 p.m.

Please join us for a service honoring the life, work and vision of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

with keynote address by

The Honorable Ras J. Baraka, Mayor of Newark

Join Jersey City civic and religious leaders at this moving Shabbat service and beautiful Beth-El tradition.

Service led by Rabbi Leana Moritt and Cantor Risa Wallach with the Choir of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and Church of the Incarnation.

Oneg Shabbat refreshments will be sponsored by Sam Pesin, Lou Borriello and Judy Borriello Pesin in honor of Rev. Dr. King and in loving memory of their parents, Ethel and Morris Pesin.

Ras J. Baraka is the 40th Mayor of the City of Newark, now in his second term. A native of Newark, whose family has lived in the city for more than 70 years, Mayor Baraka has overseen Newark's narrative change from a "troubled city" to a "city of opportunity" with more than four billion dollars of development underway. Crime and unemployment are at their lowest level in 50 years, thanks to collaboration between residents and law enforcement, police that participate in the community and mirror the city's diversity, and trauma-informed violence reduction initiatives that prevent conflicts from becoming deadly.

Under Mayor Baraka's tenure, Newark has enacted an inclusionary zoning ordinance, a requirement that all tax-abated development include a minority or woman developer, and free legal representation for tenants. He is also facilitating the creation of worker cooperatives, enabling renters to become homeowners, and preparing local contractors to become developers of housing in neglected neighborhoods.

In his first term, Mayor Baraka succeeded in returning control of local schools to the people of Newark after more than two decades under state rule. He's created an office of sustainability aimed at making Newark a healthier and greener city. And he signed an executive order designating Newark as a sanctuary city in defiance of Presidential anti-immigrant policies.

Mayor Baraka was educated in the Newark Public Schools. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science and History from Howard University in Washington, D.C. and a Master's Degree in Education Supervision from St. Peter's University in Jersey City. Prior to becoming Mayor, he was a long-time educator in the Newark Public Schools. His father, the late Amiri Baraka, was a legendary poet and playwright. His mother, Amina Baraka, is herself a renowned poet. The father of three daughters, Mayor Baraka is a published poet as well.

Rabbi's Message by Rabbi Leana Moritt

On December 10, the equilibrium of our community was profoundly shattered with a brutal anti-Semitic rampage that left four innocent people dead, thousands of school children locked in their schools, and countless more afraid and horrified at the hatred and violence that had been unleashed here. We mourn with the four families that now face unbearable loss. We stand with our brothers and sisters of all faiths, cultures and colors who celebrate diversity in Jersey City and Hudson County. We denounce all forms of hate and bigotry. Along with the ways Temple Beth-El reacted to the massacre, below is the prayer I was honored to offer on the morning Governor Murphy convened an interfaith dialog at Beth-El on December 13.

In the days following the attack, Temple Beth-El has been at the forefront of the community, offering space for healing and solidarity and meeting with officials offering help and support. On the day of the shooting we announced we would be holding a healing service/vigil the next day. With almost 500 people in attendance, we hosted Mayor Steven Fulop, New Jersey Attorney General Gurbir Grewal, Israeli Consul General Ambassador Dani Dayan, Assemblywoman Angela McKnight and other prominent officials and activists. Perhaps more importantly, clergy members of a rainbow of faiths were there to speak out vociferously in support of the Jewish community, in solidarity and against hate. Even the First Lady, Tammy Murphy stopped by.

Friday morning, Temple Beth-El hosted Governor Murphy, Lieutenant Governor Oliver, Senator Menendez, Congressmen Sires and Pascrell, Attorney General Grewal, Mayor Fulop and countless state and local representatives for a clergy roundtable discussion with dozens of Hudson County clergy represented. On Monday Tom and I participated in a discussion with the Federal Special Envoy for Monitoring and Combating antisemitism, Elan Carr. Along with Mayor Fulop, Attorney General Grewal, Hudson County Prosecutor Esther Suarez, the Colonel of the New Jersey State Police Patrick Callahan and Jewish Federation CEO Jason Shames, we discussed, among other things, addressing hate crimes, the proliferation of hate on the Internet and, especially, the importance of anti-bias education.

Mayor Fulop, Governor Murphy, Senator Menendez

Following those discussions, I was able to pay a shiva call and express my condolences on behalf of Beth-El to the family of Mindel Ferencz, the murdered co-owner of the Greenville store that was attacked. It was so very sad. At the same time, they were grateful for the visit and the stories I shared about how many people had come to the Temple to express love and support for the Jewish community. They were also very curious about Beth-El and the first Reform rabbi many of them had every met face to face (and a woman, too!).

If you were to ask me what gave me the most pause all week, it was what to say to the children on Sunday morning in Religious School. I am very grateful to my friend (and former student) Detective Chris Rengel of the Union City Police. Chris came in uniform to address and reassure the children during our Family Tefilla time. It gave the children the chance to talk about how they were feeling. Opening the discussion up for questions, Detective Rengel generously answered questions the children had and stayed on for more after school. It was clear the children wanted to talk and listen to one another.

Rabbi Moritt with Congressman Sires and a member of the Chasidic community

In addition to the countless expressions of support, I am very grateful for several offers of professional psychological support that enabled us to offer two professionally-led programs. Please also remember I am here for you if you would like to meet privately.

Many are probably wondering how they might meaningfully help the victims of the shootings. In addition to thoughts and prayers, donations of tzedakah are not only practical ways to help but our tradition teaches that they activate our thoughts and prayers. Following are the most direct ways to help:

- A general fund established by Jewish Federation of Northern New Jersey. 100% of what is collected will be used to assist those affected by this horrendous crime: <https://www.jfnnj.org/supportjerseycity/>
- To support the family of Detective Seals: <https://www.gofundme.com/f/for-det-seals-and-his-family>
- To support the family of Miguel Douglas Rodriguez: <https://www.gofundme.com/f/douglas-rodriguez-victim-of-the-jc-shooting>
- To support the Ferencz Family: <https://www.charidy.com/jcvictims>

Finally, I need to express profound disappointment with Jersey City Board of Education member Joan Terrell Paige in the wake of this tragedy. Her irresponsible and insensitive post criticizing the outpouring of support for the Jewish community was outrageous and ignorant. At times like these when emotions run high, we need our leaders to express themselves thoughtfully and in measured ways. There is no room for hateful and anti-Semitic rhetoric coming from an elected public official with responsibility for our children's education. Violence, let alone murder, is never equivocal. This must be taught at every level of our educational system, which should model the embrace of diversity that Jersey City stands for. I know she is in the minority and am gratified to see many people attesting to that. We know there is pain and injustice felt in many corners of our community. I am proud that Temple Beth-El works to be a part of the solution to this pain and injustice. Grandstanding on the blood of innocents is unconscionable.

Rabbi Moritt with friends from the Islamic Center

In addition to the partners I have mentioned above and so many who have expressed support and kindness, there are a few others I would like to acknowledge here. They have been helping and supporting us from the very beginning and in a multitude of ways. First and foremost, our thanks go to our local and county police and first responders. They have been with us before this tragedy and have promised to continue to be here after. We also thank our President Tom Rosensweet, Jewish Federation's Kim Schwartzman, Jason Shames and Gerry Dargan, Jersey City Together's Frank McMillan, Ahmed Shedeed, our own Lari Schwartz, Alain Mentha and Judith Schteingart and, especially, Vadim Ivanov and Anna Khanumian.

Pray for peace. Speak up. Do justice.

In friendship and l'shalom,

Rabbi Leana Moritt

My prayer for our elected officials and interfaith clergy:

Master of the Universe, / ריבונו של עולם Ribbono shel Olam

We know to start our conversations with gratitude, but to be honest, some days it's harder than others.

We are tired, God.

It's been a rough couple of days.

People are really hurting. People are afraid.

But this morning, we are grateful to gather with others who get it.

We, who live in the tension between the eternal and the transient; the universal and the specific; the practical and the theoretical.

We thank you for bringing us among friends and partners.

You've deployed us to work as your agents, and for that we are grateful.

We live to connect others to their highest aspirations.

We serve by listening with our hearts. Let us do that today.

Author of creation / יוצר הכל Yotzer hakol, thank you for deploying us to this city, where the diversity of your light shines like the facets of an intricately carved gem. Here it's not about tolerance; we love it here because the beautiful mosaic of Jersey City gives us a front row seat to the different ways you "love us into being." Help us use that light and love to reconfigure grief and fear into possibility and connection.

Master of all flesh, you've created us as such complex creatures. We need reminding that at our core, we are part of the Divine Oneness of all.

We can't always see that so clearly in the middle of trauma.

Omnipresent One / המקום HaMakom, Help us remember that the truth is more complicated than a sound bite or a headline. You've got the corner on the market of truth. We just sometime glimpse pieces. Help us remember I can affirm your truth without denying our own. Help us remember I can affirm your story without denying our own. Because, God, I don't need to remind you. You know, we have stories. The fallout from those stories are seared in our DNA.

God, you know we seek justice. We seek fairness. We seek acceptance. We seek love. We seek the safety of home. We seek shalom. We seek salaam. We seek peace. We are bewildered and reeling as our neighborhoods, our country and our world is changing quickly before our eyes. Our worlds are getting hard to recognize. God, that messes with our heads. You didn't program us to manage that so well.

But you, Source of strength / מקור כח Makor koach—you programmed us with hope. With yearning. With the will to strive, to connect and to defy barriers to our life force. We feel the love and good will around us but we don't know what to do with the shadows we know are lurking, now—in every corner—with words of hate and guns drawn.

At the healing vigil, making friends

Creator of all flesh, / כל בשר איש Ruach kol b'sar ish, you cry along with us when blood is shed, horrified when life is taken in your name. Our people are being targeted, killed. But you know we are not here today just because Jews were killed. We are here because we know that when one life is taken, the whole world is taken. Because today hatred grows unabated. Something has been unleashed that sends the insane message that it is ok or please forbid it, normal. This is not ok. This is not normal.

Healer of the broken-hearted / רופא לשוברי לב Harofeh lishvurei lev
We are here today to witness the pain in one another's eyes and hearts. We are here today to affirm one another's fears. We are here today to affirm one another's stories. One another's history. One another's humanity. We are here today not just to mourn, but to seek change, connection, possibility. Today, as we do every day in Jersey City.

Maker of peace, creator of all, / עושה שלום Oseh shalom, let us not be manipulated by incendiary stories that sow fear and anger and divisiveness- especially when they obscure fuller truths. Let us be kind to ourselves as we reel from this trauma. Let us speak up for who (we are) as the city and the country we know we are. Be with us as catch our breath and sure our footing. Let us turn to one another and to one another. As we have. As we do now. As we live now. As we will continue to do. Help us to lead with THIS story. Your Story.

President's Message

by Tom Rosensweet

2019 has been quite a year for our congregation. A few highlights...

Our 34th annual Martin Luther King Memorial Service, featuring Assemblywoman and founder of Angela Cares, Angela McKnight.

I don't know about you, but the sight of Rabbi Moritt dressed in full Detroit Lions regalia for the Purim Shpiel will stick with me for a long time!

We had a two-part Jewish Storytelling Festival in the spring, "Jewish Views of the Afterlife" in November.

It's another big year for our religious school and our Bar/Bat Mitzvah candidates.

Our High Holy Day services drew accolades for Rabbi Moritt, Cantor Wallach, Ben Rauch and our Kol Nidre cellist, all our volunteers and our beautiful sanctuary.

Sukkot: When I told Rabbi Moritt that our sukkah had blown down in a big storm, she didn't blink an eye. "It'll be a great teaching moment," she exclaimed!

The year is drawing to a close on a tragic note, though, as the JC Kosher Market killings shook the local Jewish community and all of Jersey City to the core. Under Rabbi Moritt's leadership, Temple Beth-El held a vigil the very next night for hundreds of shocked citizens of all faiths. Along with K'hal Adas Greenville, TBE served as a center for meetings of regional religious and political leaders.

I hope you'll make a New Year's resolution to become more involved in Temple Beth-El in 2020. Come on a Wednesday night at 5:00 and hand out food at our Food Pantry; stay at Temple with some homeless families brought to us by Family Promise; or write to me at tom@betheljc.org to talk about how you can contribute your talents and energy.

And while I'm asking...Please make a donation to Temple Beth-El. Though we envision a balanced budget each year, the reality is that extra expenses and fundraising shortages have led to deficits that eroded what were once substantial reserves. In the past few years, we have only balanced our budget because of unplanned one-time events - a large bequest, rental income from HBO, and a special appeal.

Designate our Sustaining Fund so your contribution will help pay our ongoing expenses. Designate Kadimah! to support our building renovation or our Torah restoration project. Finally, you can donate food to the Temple Food Pantry.

Learn more about all of these opportunities at www.betheljc.org Please be as generous as you can.

Happy New Year to all.

Meet the Temple Leadership!

Curious about the leadership of Temple Beth-El? During the course of the year, we'll bring you brief bios, so you can learn about the people helping to run our Temple.

Introducing Robin and Alex Schkrutz

Robin and Alex are long term active members of Temple Beth-El, first joining as young parents in 1989. At that time, their first son David was two years old and Eric had just been born. They attended the newly started Nursery School, a non-denominational school set up in collaboration with Bayonne Jewish Community Center. Rabbi Ken Brickman had just become our Rabbi and long time member Eleanor Bouer (recently deceased) was the new nursery school teacher. Within 10 years Robin was a Temple Board member, and has been Recording Secretary, and VP of Lifelong Learning, Ritual, Membership, and Fundraising and Search Committees. Both boys became bar mitzvah and Eric taught at Sunday school during his teen years. Flash forward, Eric just turned 30, obtained his master's degree in City and Urban Planning from Rutgers and is currently working with the Hudson County Planning Department. David, now 32, is a self employed entrepreneur.

Alex and Robin first met in 1980 while both were working for Genigraphics, a spinoff of General Electric. Even though they attended the same high school (High School of Art and Design in NYC) and the same college (Pratt Institute), they didn't meet up until they landed at Genigraphics at the early intersection of art, design, computers and fun. Their share in a house on Fire Island in the early 80's included neighbors Mel Brooks and Anne Bancroft. They also both worked for global public relations company Burson-Marsteller for many years. They share fond memories about the PR Icon Harold Burson, who at 98 years old still works every day. Harold reported at the Nuremberg Trials after his army service, and over the years counseled Presidents, heads of state and heads of corporations. Robin worked personally with Harold Burson and his wife, creating graphics and advising them on social media and brochures. It was certainly a highlight in both Alex and Robin's lives to work with them.

Robin grew up in Bayside, Queens, Alex in Greenpoint Brooklyn. Robin's mother was born in Jersey City and lived on Pavonia Avenue before moving to New York. Robin and Alex first visited Jersey City in 1985 to attend a funeral. They had been living in Robin's NYC studio and were house hunting. They passed the wonderful area of Lincoln Park on the way to the funeral and came back the next week to see more. That same year they bought the house in which they still reside, on Gifford Avenue. Robin and Alex recently became double homeowners, residing three months a year in Coconut Creek, Florida.

Now retired, Robin continues to create art work. She started her own company, Red Cat Ceramics, in 2011. She creates ceramic animal portraits and animal memorials that can be used to store ashes, created on commission for the most part, selling on Etsy and by word of mouth. The urns were influenced by cat mummies she first saw at the British Museum in London. Robin pursues her dual passion for ceramics and her love of animals in her home studio on the third floor. She manages our main Facebook page and is the go-to-person when Temple needs a graphic artist!

After leaving the PR world, Alex began teaching as a second career starting in 2011, in Guttenberg and Hoboken. Now also retired, Alex enjoys being the Temple "Twitter Master" and volunteering for the Temple food pantry, and both Robin and Alex have contributed often with Family Promise. They share a love of visiting museums and artwork, most recently on a trip to Spain. Alex also has a passion for music, be it jazz or rock 'n roll, and is an expert at NY Times crossword puzzles.

How wonderful to have Robin and Alex as part of the foundation of our Temple Family.

On Monday, December 30, 2019 and Monday, January 6, 2020 Temple Beth-El volunteers will join the student rabbis and cantors at the Hebrew Union College (the Reform Jewish Seminary in New York) to help staff their Monday night soup kitchen.

The HUC students and congregants from Reform congregations have provided food, clothing, toiletries and hospitality to their neighbors in need every Monday for over 30 years (except for one Monday during Hurricane Sandy when there was no power in their area.) Before and after the food service, student clergy meet with the volunteers to talk about the Jewish values that we strive to meet when we volunteer for this type of service.

We have committed to bring 5-10 volunteers. Families, particularly those bringing 5th graders and up are welcome. If you have the time and the heart, (time commitment is from about 4:00pm to 7:00 pm) please contact Kay@betheljc.org and sign up asap.
