Rabbi's Message

by Rabbi Leana Moritt

"And God said to us at Mount Sinai, 'Today you stand before Me, all of you, your leaders and your followers, your children and your wives, even the stranger; all of you, from the woodchopper to the waterdrawer...' " (Deuteronomy 29)

It was another Zoom call with another prospective new family. I love getting to know our new people as they come through our doors, virtual or otherwise. It's wonderful because it seems that not a week goes by without someone new reaching out. They come with wonderfully diverse backgrounds and stories. I'm in awe of their courage. As much as I work very hard to be warm and welcoming, not everyone likes cold-calling rabbis.

Sometimes it's a young couple. Perhaps they've just had a baby and are looking for help planning a baby naming. Or they are curious about Tot Shabbat. Many call because they've heard about our Introduction to Judaism class and are curious about exploring Judaism, even conversion. Sometimes it's even for a quickie secret wedding.

Or it may be a family recently moved to Jersey City and looking for a Jewish educational program for their child. Or just want to know what we have going on for Purim. Perhaps it's a family who recently sold the suburban family home and is ready for more urban adventures in a new stage of life. Perhaps they are planning for a funeral or memorial. Very often too, it is simply someone at any age looking for community, connection and meaning. As it has for 150 years, all roads seem to lead through Temple Beth-El and Jersey City.

It reminds me of many of the legends surrounding Mount Sinai: The Torah teaches that all Jews were there at Sinai to receive the Torah, whether we were alive then, had not yet been born, or had already died; whether we were born into a Jewish family or if our Jewish soul had yet made the transition with conversion. The rabbis mused that receiving Torah took on an individualized nature. Of course, the Torah text itself is immutable, but the Talmudic rabbis teach that the Divine crafted what each person heard in such a way that each person's heart could absorb it best and directly.

Which brings me back to this week's new family. They asked, "so who comes? At what stage of life are most of your members and attendees?" Being at so many of our different services and events I could honestly answer we range from 1—100. But I also realized that the truth is like the blind man and the elephant question. You know the one: 5 blind people are asked to describe an elephant while feeling different parts of their body. The person at the tusk describes it differently than the one at the tail, which is a different description of the leg, which is different from the trunk, which is different from the ear. It's all the same elephant, but the experience is completely different for each person.

It's the same with our Temple. Of course, at Temple there are many, many wonderful exceptions some broad truths: Grandparents come to Tot Shabbat and school events, but it's mostly young families. Several singles and long-time members are in Introduction to Judaism and Hebrew, but it's mostly young couples. People of all ages come to Shabbat services (especially on "First Fridays") but most of our "regulars" are empty nesters.

As much as our sanctuary inspires awe and brings us together in ritual and prayer, if I'm honest, it's our Social Hall that binds us as a community. From onegs after services, Tot Shabbat, our communal Seder, Borsht or Sips, b'nai mitzvah kiddush lunch or celebration, adult education and religious school—even visits from the Governor— it is our Social Hall space that defines us. If the sanctuary is the soul of our congregation, the Social Hall is its beating heart.

Perhaps you heard about the plan that was launched this past summer to transform our Social Hall into a new bright, windowed school facility and upgraded modern event space. No doubt you also know the Social Hall was flooded this fall and exacerbated a mold growth. Maybe you also know that as I write this the mold is gone, but so is the floor and the walls. The ceiling will be gone soon as well. I have to admit, I'm not sad to see that awful red wallpaper gone too. And hopefully all the leaky pipes will follow soon.

As dreadful as the damage was, it is an incredible opportunity and impetus for us to supercharge the transformation of our downstairs space into something that each and every one of us will delight and take pride in. The truth is that no matter what brings you and keeps you coming to Temple Beth-El, each of us has a stake and a role in its outcome.

It's just like Sinai. We are all part of the story, past, present and future. And just like at Sinai, we are hoping for 100% participation from all our people, whatever you can do. If you are a member now, were a member once, or are still considering it, please contribute to the Foundations initiative. If you are a Shabbat regular or just pop into Tot Shabbat when the kids aren't napping, please contribute to the Foundations initiative. If you are looking for a worthwhile tzedakah recipient for a percentage of your b'nai mitzvah gifts or just need a good tax write-off, please contribute to the Foundations initiative. Mostly, if you want the feeling of knowing that what you've done ensures another century of a warm, embracing, strong and beautiful Temple Beth-El for yourselves and our future, please contribute to the Foundations initiative.

As Theodore Herzl said, "if you will it, it is no dream." The will and the need are strong. Together we will make it happen.

With many blessings for a healthy, sweet and joyful 2022,

Rabbi Leana Moritt

Tu B'Shevat Seder

Sunday, January 16 6pm on Zoom

The Kabbalists and Jewish Mystical Masters created the Tu B'Shevat seder to elevate and integrate the soul, the land, and the Torah. The seder celebrates their belief that God's presence was like a tree "rooted in heaven" stretching down from the Divine realm to enter our world. By eating fruit singled out in its praise of the bounty of the Holy Land, drinking wine, singing and sharing readings and reflections on the environment and spirit, the traditional Tu b'Shevat seder incorporates four stages representing the four worlds of Jewish mysticism. Join us as we reveal and explore the inner potential within the land and ourselves.

Gather your materials and have them laid before you before the seder begins. You will need:

- 4 cups of wine or grape juice (white and red)
- At least 3 kinds of fruit: 1. Fruit with a hard/inedible rind or shell, such as melon, pineapple, nuts, bananas, oranges. 2. Fruit with a hard/inedible pit or stone inside, such as olives, dates, cherries, mango, apricot 3. Fruit that is edible throughout, such as tomato, grapes, raisins, strawberries, blueberries, pears, apples, cranberries.
- Aromatic herbs, such as rosemary, sage, mint, lavender, basil, cinnamon, cloves.
- Chocolate (optional) Maple syrup (optional)

Rabbi Leana Moritt will be teaching a class titled Choose Life: Jewish Abortion Ethics (Aleph Session) Starting in Torah and antiquity, Judaism has had a position on when life begins that is different from that of the Christian church. We will examine texts that illuminate the Jewish ethical and legal perspectives of abortion in honor of Repro Shabbat.

Shabbat as an Anchor

“52 times a year. That’s a lot. A Bar Mitzvah happens once in a lifetime, Yom Kippur is once a year and seder night is two nights in a year. Shabbat happens a lot more often than any other special Jewish day. We can either let it go by every week and just do the same normal thing or we can mark the change and development in our lives with another Shabbat every week, making it special and memorable.”

~Abraham Joshua Heschel

I love Shabbat. Maybe it’s because of delicious fresh challah, the glow of the Shabbat candles, and the many beautiful Shabbat gatherings I’ve attended. Sometimes I like a day off, and to me, that’s what Shabbat is – a day off from pressure and responsibilities. On a deep theological level, Shabbat is one of the “eternal signs” of our covenant with God. One of the songs we sing on Shabbat is V’shamru:

(31:16) The Israelite people shall keep the sabbath, observing the sabbath throughout the ages as a covenant for all time: (17) it shall be a sign for all time between Me and the people of Israel. For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day He ceased from work and was refreshed. (JPS Hebrew-English Tanakh, Jewish Publication Society, 1999)

וְשָׁמְרוּ בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל אֶת הַשַּׁבָּת,
לְעֲשׂוֹת אֶת הַשַּׁבָּת לְדֹרֹתָם בְּרִית עוֹלָם:
בֵּינִי וּבֵין בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל אֹתָהּ הִיא לְעוֹלָם,
כִּי שֵׁשֶׁת יָמִים עָשָׂה יְיָ אֶת הַשָּׁמַיִם וְאֶת הָאָרֶץ,
וּבַיּוֹם הַשְּׁבִיעִי שָׁבַת וַיִּנָּפֵשׁ.

V’shamru is a direct quote from the Torah, from Ki Tissa. The portion Ki Tissa describes God’s meeting with Moses on Sinai, including details of how to build the Mishkan, our Holy Sanctuary, and it tells the story of the Golden Calf. The parashah also tells of the two times Moses received the 10 Commandments from God on Sinai. V’shamru is one of the traditional liturgical songs for Shabbat. It’s often sung during the Friday evening service and again is sung prior to the Shabbat morning Kiddush. There are many popular melodies for V’shamru.

When we focus on the meaning of these two verses, we see two reasons for observing Shabbat – because Jews have done so for generations, and because God rested from the activity of creating the world. Observing (or “keeping”) Shabbat is a tradition from our ancestors, and they’re important to us. Plus, the biggest Champion, our God, who (if we believe a Super Power created the world) is stronger, bigger, smarter, and more powerful than any “super-hero” ever invented in comics, books, or movies, took a day off! This behavior merits following.

Consider the words of Rabbi Heschel (above). For my family and me, Shabbat anchors our week; we gather for a special Friday evening meal and talk about the week that’s passed as well as our hopes for the coming week. We remember how much we love each other and we find ways to enjoy being together. With just a little special effort, we take a time away from our usual activities to mark the day, and in turn, I believe we’re marked by Shabbat’s blessings of peace, love, and happiness.

May Shabbat’s blessings favor you and your loved ones. I look forward to being together with you to celebrate Shabbat at TBE.

B’shira (in song),

Marian

Special Shabbat with Joshua Nelson, “the prince of kosher gospel” celebrating Shabbat Shira, the Shabbat of Song

Friday, January 14 @ 6:00 pm

On Zoom here And register here

Nelson is both a Jewish Gospel singer and a full-time Hebrew teacher in the Hebrew school at Sharey Tefilo-Israel in South Orange, when he is not on the road. He also serves as director of music at Hopewell Baptist Church in Newark, NJ. He performs around the world and has performed with legends of gospel and jazz. Some people, he says, compare him to a reincarnated Mahalia Jackson. But for him, success is about making a connection with people, not about celebrity or praise.

”If someone’s uplifted by my music, then that’s successful,” he said.

BUILDING UPDATE

Your volunteer Board, Building and Kadima! committees have been very busy!

As you may know, Hurricanes Henry and Ida flooded the Social Hall and lobby with multiple feet of water. All the flooring and much of the paneling on the walls have now been removed. Anti-fungal solutions have been applied to kill any remaining mold. We are negotiating with the remediators to remove additional paneling and ceiling tiles that would have to be removed anyway as part of the Social Hall renovation.

The next step will be to determine the source of the water that inundated the Social Hall and repair it.

Meanwhile, our architects have nearly completed a new phase in their design work that will enable us and our contractor to start making detailed plans and material selection for the Social Hall.

Three big fans in the roof have been made operable for the first time in decades. For now, this means improved ventilation and health safety. Next summer, and for the High Holidays, it will mean a much more comfortable Temple.

Our all-new Temple security system has been completed after a lengthy delay while we waited for the last of three doors that had to be replaced. This was paid for by a grant from the Federal Department of Homeland Security.

We have had a leaky heating pipe repaired and have asked our plumbers for a quote to replace all of the old piping so that it won't continue to break. A complete heating-system overhaul, including air conditioning for our sanctuary, is planned for the next construction phase, the Sanctuary's Capstone Project. However, pipe replacement could save us $20,000—$40,000 yearly.

PSE&G will be inspecting our building this week to conduct an energy audit and determine our eligibility for their energy-savings grants and discounts.

The SBA is in the final stages of determining what kind of benefits we will receive from the damage.

The Temple is appealing our Insurance claim in the effort to receive benefits for the necessary work.

Join the team! Together we will raise the money and get the work done.

Contact Tom Rosensweet or Peter Retzlaff to donate time, expertise, money or moral support!

Extraordinary times may compel one to make difficult decisions for which they were not previously prepared. Whether you find yourself faced with the decisions surrounding the death of a family member or you are considering making advance plans, Temple Beth-El has a plot of burial grounds in Mount Moriah Cemetery in Fairview, NJ.

Mount Moriah is a beautiful and well-maintained cemetery that has been serving the Jewish Community for over 100 years. The cemetery is located on the slopes of the Palisades just a few minutes from Hudson County, between Kennedy Blvd and Routes 1&9. The Temple's graves are located on the main road of the cemetery and are adjacent to our original plot where, among many of our founding members, our founding rabbi, the late Maurice Thorne is buried. These graves are available for purchase, either as a family plot or individual graves.

For further information, please contact Larry Gutterman at admin@betheljc.org

There have been several serious recent incidents of pedestrians hit by cars in the vicinity of Temple Beth-El, including the tragic death of our congregant, Judith Baller-Fabian by a hit-and-run driver. PLEASE be careful when arriving to and leaving the Temple.
