On the Eve of her 75th Birthday, Israel's Democracy Hangs in the Balance

It's April, and what could be more present in the Jewish world than Passover? This year, my hands are in the kitchen and the seder table, but my heart is in Israel. As I write this, developments are now quickly unfolding. After literally hundreds of thousands—likely millions—of protesters (including me along with a few hundred Reform Rabbis) who have been demonstrating uninterrupted since December, we all have a stake in the outcome of this sacred relationship with Israel.

First a little context. Last December is when Benjamin Netanyahu—who is currently under indictment on a number of criminal charges including corruption—retook the helm as prime minister by forming a radically ultra-nationalist right-wing ultra-Orthodox government coalition with only a hair-thin narrow majority.

Remember, you don't get to be prime minister of Israel by being elected to it. you only get the job if you head the party with the most votes and then are able to form a coalition with other parties to constitute a majority of the legislature (Knesset). Netanyahu is Israel's longest-serving prime minister. Israel has suffered through his leadership through six administrations: for three years in the late 1990s and for 12 of the last 14 years.

But this time, working fast after his re-election, his administration has been trying to bulldozing a law that would give the Knesset the power to set aside any judgement of the Supreme Court, even with a simple majority, thereby completely nullifying the balance of power and decimating the democratic checks and balances in the country. These proposed laws also completely change how the Supreme Court Justices are chosen, further politicizing it.

In Israel, just as in every functioning democracy, the balance of power and the checks and balances come from the Judiciary—the court system and, like the US, the Supreme Court. And it is these checks and balances, this democracy that has millions taking to the streets in Israel.

Netanyahu is working to dismantle the court because over the last few decades, the court has been the only power pushing back on his ruling conservative legislature. It has been the court which in many cases has upheld the rights of women, LGBTQ, Arabs and other minority citizens, immigrants, and all non-Orthodox Israelis in striking down conservative laws passed by the Knesset. It is also the court that continues to uphold Netanyahu's indictments and which has barred many of his previous ministers from further serving in the government after their own convictions.

Over the last 20 years or so, it has been easy to equate Israel with Netanyahu's policies. Because of the consistently right-wing and ultra-Orthodox coalitions, these are the policies that have consistently worked to support the continuing settlement activity in the West Bank; to undermine the growth of solid, honest Palestinian West Bank leadership; to actively work to undermine the rights of women, Palestinian citizens, LGBTQ folks and anyone who isn't Orthodox. Up until now, security concerns have continually supported increasingly slim conservative election outcomes.

But the message from Israel now is coming through loud and clear. This is not who we are! Israelis of all stripes are taking to the streets: religious and secular; Muslim, Christian and Jew; Ashkenazi, Sephardi and Mizrahi; soldiers; teachers; high tech entrepreneurs. When I was there protesting late last month with all of those above, the two words people were chanting that rung out were “democratia!” and “busha!” Meaning: “democracy” and “shame—shame on you—you should be ashamed of yourself.” And, mind you, that among hundreds of thousands of people, not for one moment did it feel dangerous or violent. Determined, yes, but in both Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, it was entirely orderly and respectful. There was no need for any police, nor were there any in sight.

Rabbi Moritt protesting in Tel Aviv with Knesset Member Rabbi Gilad Kariv, Feb 2023

Since my return, more and more Israelis are demanding this judicial overhaul legislation be stopped. This is why members of elite military units have refused to train; why even the defense minister spoke out about it (and was summarily fired by Netanyahu); why Netanyahu's translators refused to accompany him on a diplomatic trip to Italy. It is why hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of Israelis are disrupting everyday life, blocking streets, highways and flights at Ben Gurion International Airport; not going to work or sending their kids to school; going on strikes. It is why high-tech companies are making serious plans to pull out of Israel.

I know I am not alone in shaking my head with disappointment and despair in the policies of one Netanyahu administration after the other in the last 25 years, especially as it pertains to the treatment of Palestinians in the West Bank and other minorities. Yet, from my front-row seat at these Israeli protests last month, my faith in and my love for Israel was reawakened and reaffirmed. What was crystal clear to me there is that Israel, the Israeli people—the Israeli heart and soul—must not be confused with its current, stale and corrupt government. Israel is not Netanyahu and his politics.

Israelis are standing up to say this is not why Israel was founded and how it was defined. This is not what they fight and die for—what they send their children to fight and die for. This is not the Israel they live for and love. This is not the Israel they will tolerate.

As we prepare ourselves for Passover and the great liberation and redemption of our people, we need to remember both that Israel is the home to about half the Jews in the world and what the world was like for Jews before there was a state of Israel, a short 75 years ago. Israel is the only place in the world where any of us can go and immediately claim citizenship and make a home. Israel is the only democracy, the only safe place for many—Jews and non-Jews—in the entire Middle East.

American Jews were ambivalent at best toward the safety and justice of the almost 10 million European Jews on the eve of the 2nd World War. Today, too, it has become far too easy to turn a judgmental and dismissive eye toward Israel—as an “issue.” “They” do things we don't agree with. Busha. Shame on the Israeli government for some of them.

Ours is a sacred relationship. On Passover we read the section of the Bible called Shir Hashirim, the Song of songs. It is poetry recalling what it is like in the flush of new love in the budding sacred relationship between God and the people Israel. May it be that this Passover, we are all able to rekindle that passion for our faith in and support for Medinat Israel's democracy and goodness, and the inviolable relationship we have with her and all her people.

Chag Sameach. I wish you all a sweet and liberating Pesach and a re-energized Yom Ha-atzmaut on Israel's 75th birthday on April 25/26.

Rabbi Leana Moritt

Amélie Louise Mentha, daughter of Jennifer Strong and the late Alain Mentha, will become a bat mitzvah on April 29. Amélie is in the seventh grade at Primary Prep in Jersey City, and her favorite subjects are math and social studies, and particularly, debate. She also enjoys singing in Glee Club there, as well as playing piano. Most recently she has taken up drawing in her free time. Since 2014 until recently, Amélie has enjoyed studying ballet, tap, jazz and lyrical dance at Performing Arts Workshop and Nimbus, downtown dance studios, and hopes to go on pointe in ballet in the next year.

Amélie’s family joined Temple Beth-El in 2014 and she began Hebrew School that year. Judaism is an important part of Amélie’s life, and it is a deep connection to her father, who embraced the local community and chaired the social action committee for several years. She will always cherish her memories of performing in the Purim plays with him (during and pre-Covid!) and co-hosting together lively Passover meals for friends and neighbors, singing and reciting her prayers in Hebrew from an early age.

In preparing for her Bat Mitzvah, Amélie has particularly enjoyed studying her Torah portion and thinking more deeply of what it means to welcome the stranger, as she has been helping and participating in activities for many years at Welcome Home Fun Club, the non-profit organization her father helped form and grow, which serves to support local refugees, asylees and asylum-seekers. She has also enjoyed all her teachers over the years at Temple, and speaking with them in very small group settings to learn the traditions and the history.

Amélie is eager to share her bat mitzvah day with all of her family and friends! She would like to thank Rabbi Moritt, Cantor Jeff, and the support of various community friends, and Great-Aunt Robin and Cousin Alex, for bringing her to this place. We are all so proud of her.

Our next Community Shabbat Dinner at TBE:

Friday, May 12 @ 7 pm

All attendees must pre-register here by May 9. This dinner will be in place of our usual Shabbat prayer services. Cost: $18/ per person for a fully catered Shabbat dinner. $10 for children ages 3-10.

All are welcome to the oneg/dessert at 8:30. Kaddish will be offered then for those who wish to recite it.

No Second Seder at TBE this year

We regret to inform you that, with the destruction of our Social Hall by Hurricane Ida in 2021 and the closing of sale of B'nai Jacob in March, we are unable to hold a second seder this year. The cost of renting a kosher location and hiring a kosher caterer would be prohibitive. That is why we are working so hard to make the Chai Challenge a success. The sooner we raise the funds, the sooner we will have a Social Hall where we can hold our second seder events.

We wish you a very sweet Passover. A zeisin Pesach to all!

Next year in the Social Hall!

Our Purim Family Fun Day was wonderful!

Our sixth and seventh graders did an amazing job with the mishloach manot baskets, finished early, and had time to do some of the activities as well. The older students seemed to enjoy the different activities. They were able to use the art materials to make their Purim projects their own. They put their creative minds to work and made beautiful projects! All the teachers were instrumental in making this work! They all had their activity areas, necessary materials, and the schedule for the morning rotations.
